PROCLAMATION

OF THE SUPREME COUNCIL OF GOVERNMENT
AT SEVILLE—CONCLUDED.

Translated for the N. Y. Evening Post.

The emperor convokes the nation to his presence; he chooses such deputies as he thinks proper; he arbitrarily designates the mode of electing others to treat in a foreign country respecting the most sacred concerns of the nation, when he himself has publicly censured as criminal and contrary to the rights of sovereignty, a private and respectable letter written to him by Ferdinand VII, when he was prince, to write which perhaps he was instigated by the very foreigner who now pretends to impute it to him as a crime. It is in fact a crime and an act of rebellion in an independent nation to obey a foreign prince, and to discuss in his presence and under his control, her most important interests, and Seville, nor no Spaniard will ever be so lost to shame and so destitute of loyalty as to commit such manifest and atrocious rebellion; even slaves would not be capable of staining themselves by conduct so vile and infamous.

He has taken a thousand unworthy means to deceive us; he daily disseminates seditious libels to mislead public opinion, in which professing respect to the laws and religion he tramples upon, ridicules and insults both; he omits no means however infamous to place upon our necks an iron yoke and make us his slaves; his audacity and falsehood have risen to such a degree as even to publish in one of his journals that he is united with and favored by the supreme pontiff and vicar of Jesus Christ, when it is notorious, and Europe and even barbarous nations who have respected his dignity know, that he holds him in a state of the most heavy oppression; he has despoiled him of his estates; he has caused his cardinals to leave him, as the Pope himself states by violence alone, and for the purpose of revenging him from exercising the direction and government of the whole church, which the Pope possesses by the authority and command of our divine saviour Jesus Christ.

SPANIARDS,

All this imperiously call upon us to unite and prevent such atrocious attempts. There is no revolution in Spain. We declare war against no one, and we only endeavor to defend what is most sacred against him who under the pretext of alliance and friendship has snatched it from us, and who unless we contend with him we have reason to fear will deprive us of laws, of monarchs and of religion. Let us then sacrifice every thing in so just a cause, and if we must lose every thing, let it be in battle and like generous men.

Let us then all unite; the people throughout Spain are ready to take up arms; let the most intelligent men of all the provinces be convened that public opinion may be preserved; and to refute those libels replete with insolence and atrocious falsehoods. Let us all fight, each one in his own way, and let the church of Spain incessantly implore the god of armies, whose protection, the evident justice of our cause insures.

And what have you to fear? There is not in Spain a sufficient number of the enemy's troops to intimidate us. What troops there are, are composed of different nations, obliged by force to serve, and who ardently desire to break the chains which have been imposed on them. The situations which they have taken are those most suitable to conquer and destroy them. They are besides weak and dismayed, because the consciousness of his own wickedness, makes the most valiant man a coward.

All Europe will applaud our efforts with the highest satisfaction and will hasten to assist us. Italy, Germany, the whole North, which suffers under the iron despotism of that nation, will eagerly improve the fortunate opportunity which Spain presents to emancipate themselves and recover their liberty, their laws, their monarchs, and every thing of which the hand of violence has deprived them. France herself will hasten to avoid the infamy which would cover her should she be forced to be the instrument of such horrible perfidies. No, she will not spill her blood in so vile a cause. She has suffered enough in the expectation of a peace and happiness which will never arrive, until she will be under the empire of reason, of religion, of the laws, and until the rights of other nations shall be respected and preserved.

SPANIARDS,

Your country with all that you possess, your laws, your liberty, your kings, your holy religion, and the hopes of eternal life, which that religion alone promises and can procure to you and your descendants, are in manifest, in near, and in imminent danger.

Seville, June 1.—By a letter received from Madrid from a person of respectability, we learn that on the 26th of May a council was held in that city the whole evening, and even until the next day; that dispatches arrived from the provinces of Valencia, Aragon, Old Castile and Galicia, declaring war against the French. The prince of Berg left the city, and it is said in the house called Monclova, that there are no longer any grand reviews of the French troops, and that every day their force diminishes. Surely God, who has always combatted for his people, has not forgotten how to conquer his enemies.

From the N. Y. Commercial Advertiser.

The Ship Beaver and the Mandarin.—The public attention is particularly invited to a transaction of a most extraordinary complexion.

A first rate merchant's ship, which will be navigated by about thirty seamen, is preparing for sea, and is expected to proceed on a voyage to Canton, in a few days, under a special permission from the president of the United States.

The ostensible object of this voyage is to carry home a person who is said to be a Mandarin of China.

It is, however, well known that the person for whom the permission has been obtained, is no Mandarin; is not even a licensed or security merchant;—that his departure from China was contrary to the laws of that country; that if he arrives in China, he will be put on shore privately, and that the obscurity of his condition in life, affords him the only chance he has of avoiding punishment.

It is also believed, that the owner of the ship, would not accept all the property of all the Chinese in this country as a compensation for the voyage, and it is known that he has offered to contract for bringing home goods on freight.

Whatever may have been the motive of the president in granting the permission, it is therefore certain, that the object of the owner of the ship is to make a China voyage, at a time when other merchants are restrained by the embargo.

The time of granting this permission is remarkable:—It is when a general embargo is imposed on all commerce with our nearest neighbors; when the exchange of domestic produce with Canada, New Brunswick and the Florida is interdicted by an armed force—when the intercourse of our citizens in our own bays rivers and harbours, in small boats, incapable of a sea voyage, is subject to the most rigorous control of the Custom House; nay more; this permission is to go into effect, when, on account of new and unknown political necessity, all other permissions which have not been carried into effect, are rescinded: the ship is one of the most valuable; the number of seamen exposed to peril the greatest; many men can't service; and the voyage, not to the West Indies, but the Antipodes.

If the government has been surprised at the permission obtained by any means, or if the transaction can be vindicated in honor of the administration and the reputation of all concerned require that an explanation be made.

Fellow-citizens, let us observe the progress of this affair; if the trade is safe, it can be prosecuted consistently with the public interests, let all who are willing, engage in it; otherwise, let all be restrained; there be an embargo, or no embargo; let us not countenance partial dispensations from the operation of general laws.

At Newburyport a very full and respectable meeting was held on the 9th instant, for the purpose of petitioning the president to suspend the embargo; and after some debate the following petition was agreed upon unanimously, and signed in behalf of the town.

THE PETITION.

To THOMAS JEFFERSON, President of the United States of America.

The Petition of the inhabitants of Newburyport, in legal town meeting assembled,

RESPECTFULLY REPRESENTS,

THAT they have severely suffered from the operation of the laws laying and enforcing an embargo on all ships and vessels in the ports and harbors of the United States, not only in common with their fellow citizens throughout the union, but particularly from their local situation, their large interest in shipping and merchandize, their dependence on commerce and the perishable nature of their exports. They flatter themselves that they are, and ever will be, ready to manifest their patriotism in making every necessary sacrifice for the benefit of their country, and they have yielded to these law unlimited respect and submission, whatever differences of opinion may have existed, as to their expediency or constitutionality. But so distressing are the embarrassments produced by the embargo, that they cannot contemplate its continuance without serious and alarming apprehensions. It is surely needless to detail to your excellency the various evils that must result from a total suspension of commerce to a people long habituated to maritime trade and enterprise, whose resource depend no less on the ocean than the land, and whose shipping and commodities are thus left to waste and perish on their hands, not only to the immense loss of property, but in some instances the danger of health and life. Feeling, as your petitioners do, the accumulating pressure of these evils, and confident that your excellency is disposed, so far as you are constitutionally authorized, to grant them relief, they are happy to find that by the laws of the U. States it appears to be within your power to suspend the Embargo in whole or in part whenever events in Europe may, in your opinion, render it safe and expedient. Your petitioners rejoice in the belief that such events have now taken place. They also rejoice that these events are of a nature so honorable to humanity, and so propitious to the freedom and independence of nations—Spain is emancipated, and has asserted her ancient dignity and independence, with a spirit and resolution, that promise success to her glorious exertions. An immediate peace of course takes place between that nation and Great Britain; and Spain, with her immense colonies, to which we may now add Portugal and her dependencies, will now invite to a commerce, interdicted by no decrees of the belligerents; a commerce beyond example important to America, which if opened to them, would furnish a ready and most lucrative market for their surplus and perishing commodities; which would afford them a relief from present sufferings, and a source of incalculable future benefits, and which if now neglected by them, may be seized and enjoyed by others to their perpetual exclusion.

Your petitioners cannot deny themselves the pleasure of congratulating your excellency on the pleasing opportunity which you now have of restoring your suffering countrymen to the blessings of commerce, and at the same time putting it in their power to indulge their sympathies for a gallant people nobly struggling against oppression, and who were among the first to afford them assistance in their own struggles for national independence.

Your petitioners, therefore, pray your excellency, in pursuance of the powers vested in you by the Congress of the U. States, to suspend the operation of the Embargo, at least, so far as intercourse with their respective duties.

BURLINGTON, (Ver.) August 5.
Melancholy Event.—We have to record a very melancholy event, which took place in this vicinity on Wednesday last. A Revenue Cutter from the lines commanded by Lieut. Farrington, with a sergeant and twelve privates, was dispatched by the Collector of the Customs in pursuit of a large batteau, called the Black Snake, owned by persons near the line, well known there to have been some time employed in smuggling.—The Cutter put her up Onion river, where she was found and taken possession of by Lieut. Farrington, while her crew, who were armed and stood on the bank of the river and threatened to fire on the first man who attempted to go on board. The Black Snake was manned by a part of the crew of the Cutter, who proceeded with her down the river, while the smugglers repeatedly declared they should never take her out of the river alive. They had not gone more than 100 rods, before they were fired on from the shore, through the bushes, and one man on board the Cutter, by the name of Elias Drake, was shot through the head and immediately expired. Several shots more were made, when the lieutenant ordered his men to steer for the shore.

Scarcely had they landed when the whole contents of a large gun, called a wall piece, about ten feet in length, carrying 16 ounce balls, was discharged upon them, which proved fatal to Asa Marsh, another of the crew of the Cutter and Mr. Jona. Omsby, an inhabitant of this town, who returning from his work, happened to be present at this unfortunate moment. The lieutenant also received a ball through his left arm and was slightly wounded in his head. By the spirited exertions of the people of this village, eight persons are apprehended and are safely lodged in the common goal which is guarded by a detachment from the town militia. A jury of inquest was immediately summoned, who after a view of the bodies and a careful examination of witnesses, returned their inquisition that the deceased came to their death by WILFUL MURDER. Two of the persons apprehended will probably make it appear that they were not concerned in this horrid transaction.

An examination of the prisoners has not taken place. As soon as an enquiry is made the public will have a minute detail of the facts; in the mean time, it is hoped that all opinion will be suspended. There are four of these desperadoes who have not yet been taken, but the greatest exertions are making to apprehend them.

Just as this paper was going to press captain Harman, and a detachment of soldiers from the lines, arrived here with a person called captain Peas, one of the crew of the Black Snake. He was apprehended on Hogg island.

We learn that a sloop loaded with 69 barrels of powder, was taken near the lines, the day before yesterday.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 13.

The Spanish Consuls in the United States will probably soon have new commissions to present to the President to request Equators. What course will our Executive take? [Eastern Paper.]

It is very probable that before long, an Ambassador from the Junta in Spain will arrive in the U. States. "Spain was the first nation which admitted American vessels and their prizes into her ports, after the commencement of our revolution."—Three millions were then contending here for the right of self-government—now twelve millions are contending for the same right there. (Ibid.)

COMMUNICATION.

Question for the consideration of constitutional republicans.

In the 9th section of the constitution of the U. States, it is declared, "that no person holding any office of profit or trust under the United States, shall without the consent of congress, accept of present, emolument, office, or title of any kind whatever, from any king, prince or foreign state."

Was not Mr. Jefferson's acceptance of the title and privileges conferred on himself and Mr. Madison in the year '93 by the French national convention, of "naturalized French citizens," a violation of this article of the constitution? Can these gentlemen now be considered otherwise than as subjects of the French emperor? Time has discovered that this provision in the constitution was wisely intended to guard against foreign influence, but it appears to be disregarded even by the Apostles of Democracy. Think of this and Spanish pensions.

(U. S. Gaz.)

[SPANISH REVOLUTION confirmed by accounts from different quarters. It will be observed, that the last arrival from England, brought no intelligence from Spain so late as was received at Norfolk.]

Extract of a letter from St. Cruz, Teneriffe, 3d July, 1808.

"A Spanish frigate and schooner arrived this morning, with the glorious news that Spain has risen en masse, and that 300,000 men are under arms. The French army in the different provinces are cut off from every retreat to their own country. No quarter is either given or received. 12,000 men in the castle of Monjoye were attacked by the Catalonians who were repulsed with great slaughter. The French offered to surrender—the answer of the Catalonians was, to take up their arms and defend themselves, for they would give no quarters. They were all killed as were 13,000 Catalonians. The same destructive war is carried on in all the provinces. The council of the kingdom have met at Seville, with the minister Saavedra at their head. Generals had offered their services, and armies were marching in all directions. Every province has published similar resolutions to those of Seville. A letter was received from young Ferdinand, that he had made up his mind to die for his subjects, and requested they would remember his last request—and if he perished, that his loyal subjects would continue their allegiance to his august house, and never forget the perfidy of Bonaparte.

"The frigate goes to Vera Cruz, and the schooner to Buenos Ayres. The letter carries out a general, as no confidence can be put in the present governor [Liniers] who is a Frenchman. The governor of Cadiz was torn in pieces by the enraged populace, for having had the weakness to accept a commission under Murat, the brother in law of Bonaparte. The Spanish officers have joined the English cockade to theirs, in expression of their union. This town exhibits a scene of which you can form no idea. All is in motion—with a continued huzza of Viva Ferdinand the 7th, and death to his enemies!

"An armistice with the English commanders off Cadiz has been concluded; and envoys had sailed for London, to make an offensive and defensive alliance. The governor of Gibraltar has sent them men, arms and ammunition, also a seasonable supply of hard dollars."

Extract of a letter from Cadiz, dated the 20th June, received via Teneriffe.

"The whole of Spain is in arms, one general cry of vengeance pervades the mass of Spaniards. From every quarter are received accounts of the country people flying to arms—it is in short a popular, patriotic, and simultaneous movement from one end of Spain to the other—not a Frenchman found in arms will be left alive. We have just received a courier from Grenada—every eye flashes indignation—notwithstanding this apparently popular phrenzy, the greatest order is maintained, and the most systematic plans are deliberately entered into. The army of Grenada is put under the command of gen. Reading and major general Abadia, who occupy the Gargantas of Sierra Morena in St. Helena. From every appearance we shall soon be rid of the French—for nothing can withstand the irresistible powers of our arms."

WILL BE PUBLISHED IN A PAMPHLET AT THIS OFFICE IN A SHORT TIME, AN ADDRESS

TO THE
PEOPLE OF THE U. STATES,
ON THE IMPORTANCE OF ENCOURAGING
AGRICULTURE & DOMESTIC MANUFACTURES:

Tending to shew that by a due encouragement of these essential interests, the nation will be rendered more respectable abroad and more prosperous at home.

TOGETHER WITH AN ACCOUNT OF
The Improvements in Sheep at Arlington.

The native Sheep of Smith's Island; and the plans proposed of extending this valuable race of animals, for the benefit of the country at large:

By GEORGE W. P. CUSTIS Esq.
of Arlington House, in the District of Columbia.

AT a time when the energies of the nation seem awakened to the state of our foreign and domestic concerns, we conceive that the important interests of Agriculture and Manufactures should meet with a considerable share of the public discussion. Certain it is, that at no period of our political history could these national subjects excite more interest or be more properly urged to the notice of the public mind. The unsettled and impending appearance of our foreign affairs, and the present disturbed state of the European world, renders it doubly necessary for the citizens of America to cherish and promote their domestic policy, whereby they may derive those resources which are now obtained from abroad and create wealth and industry within themselves. Too long have these important and patriotic interests been neglected. The nation now feels their want, and we trust will duly provide for their support. Government, hitherto engaged in other concerns, will now cherish those domestic institutions, which will preserve the nation's dignity and promote the people's welfare.

Of the merits of the little work we are about to issue to the public, it is not our province to decide, but of the advantages to be derived from its sale we would beg leave to say every thing which a disinterested exertion in the cause of Domestic Manufacture justly demands. And as the profits of this work, after the expences of publication are paid, will be solely devoted to the purposes of the Arlington Institution, we may hope and confidently expect a liberal patronage from a discerning and patriotic community.
